INDIAN FLOOD HAVOC.

LONDON—Only now that the floods of the Ganges, which the Jumna have begun to subside, has the magnitude of the disaster they inflicted along their banks in the United Provinces been realized. Crores of rupees of damage have been done to crops, buildings, railways, etc., and a great multitude of poor agriculturists have lost everything they possessed, says a Central News-telegram from Allahabad.

At least a hundred of the Hindu priest who live by the banks along the bank of the Ganges near Harowar, a holy spot, lost their lives.

NAGARA TO BE BROADCASTED.

BIRITAIN WILL HEAR ROAR.

LONDON—The roar of the Niagara Falls may be heard soon by wireless listeners in Great Britain.

The sound of the falls will be broadcast some time ago by the British Broadcasting Company, but it will be necessary to choose a time when atmospheric conditions are least likely to interfere with the wireless waves and when there will be no interference from stations in the United States and Canada.

The falls, which are on the Niagara River between Lakes Erie and Ontario, are roughly 3,600 miles from London.

The will of the people is sometimes broken.

The Tangle

An Intimate Story of Innermost Emotion Revealed in Private Letters

LETTER FROM MRS. SALLY ATHERTON TO JAMES CONDON

I am sorry, Jimmie, that you so gently promised your friendship to me. You ought to know me well enough by this time to know that I do not like to be disposed of in this flimsy fashion.

I am very much afraid that I will not be able to know "the sweetest and prettiest doll of a woman I can imagine."

I am not in any way a society woman and especially since Sam died I have not been very friendly with anyone, not even with Leslie, who is one of my oldest and best friends. I have determined to make a great success in the business world and have devoted my entire time to it. If I have any spare moments when I arrive in Pittsburgh, I know, that Leslie will consider that I owe them to her in her present great sorrow, and I would not hurt her by making new friends if I had the inclination to do so while neglecting her friendship.

Now, Jimmie, don't jump at conclusions. I am not finding any fault with you for what you are pleased to call "falling in love." You must know what you want and from your letter you evidently feel that you have found it, but I may as well tell you honestly and bluntly that your plea for my sympathy for the woman you are going to marry falls on deaf ears.

I do remember all that sentimental stuff in which she figured and from her own testimony she marked herself as a soulless little vamp who could not be true or loyal to anyone, whose whole ambition was to find someone, anyone, to flatter and make love to her.

When her husband was too busy earning the money to supply her extravagant wants, her whole idea was to find someone else to "play around with her."

Jimmie, I know you think I am very cruel. I know you are saying that no woman can be kind to another but I also know that I cannot be otherwise than honest. I would always give anyone of my life the benefit of the doubt but when I remember how the judge from the bench excoriated her and told her that she wished there was some way of making her pay legally for what she did in connection with the murder of her lover by her husband I cannot understand how she has been able to get you, of all men, into the net.

Go into some newspaper office tomorrow and read all the testimony over again. I remember it very clearly and particularly for it did not seem to me at the time that any woman could be so utterly callous and unscrupulous. I am heartbroken that you have engaged yourself to her and I only hope that the affair will be terminated before you are legally bound to her. Otherwise you will have a life of great misery and unhappiness.

I did not mean to tell you this when I started. I thought I would wait until I saw you but as I have written it I will let it stand.

I expect from now on our friendship is lost forever and that will have to be the form of a woman getting breakfast without even taking the time to bathe and dress myself.

This was something new to me. I had never heard of a woman getting breakfast in anything but a house-dress or bungalow apron before. They belong to the same class of clothes that a chef's white cap does.

"Jim should have married one of these poison-neat women," Margie said slowly. "He has a fit if I leave the dinner dishes until the next morning."

"But we'd never get to a movie if I had to do all that work."

The house certainly did not look very comfortable. The rugs were wrinkled up, and the chairs were dusty. Even the ferns in their wicker basket seemed bedraggled and sloppy.

Margie led me into the kitchen to find the cooky-cutter. She found it in the lower oven of her gas range. It was quite rusty.

"This house is so damp that everything in it rusts," Margie explained. I went out through the neat back yard toward my own house.

The Forbes had the prettiest lawn of anyone on our street. The vegetable garden, where Fred Forbes works until dark every summer night, is as tidy as a checkerboard.

And now I know why he keeps it that way. It's because it's the one and only thing in his home life that's clean and beautiful as it should be. It's his refuge—from Margie and Margie's house.

FOLLOW THE SIMPLE RULES OF HEALTH

By STANLEY GIBSON
Attending Physician in Children's Ward at Wesley Memorial Hospital, Chicago.

The simple rules of health which are found to be best for us all apply with few exceptions to the expectant mother.

Her increased responsibility because of the new life that she is shielding should, however, stimulate her to follow out more strictly hygienic measures which she might at another time consider of little importance.

During the prenatal period the work of the organs which rid the body of waste materials is increased. The organs chiefly concerned in the elimination of these waste products are the skin, bowels and kidneys.

The care of the skin includes the taking of a daily bath, and the wearing of sufficiently warm clothing evenly distributed over the body. The bowels should be kept in good condition by laxative action of diet, such as coarse breads, green vegetables, and fresh fruits. Cathartics are better omitted unless recommended by a physician. Kidney function is aided by the taking of a liberal amount of fluids daily, and the avoidance of heavy foods.

Fresh Air Important.

The need of fresh air is too well known to need emphasis. Not only should the sleeping room be well ventilated, but proper ventilation of living rooms should not be overlooked.

Moreover, it is highly desirable that several hours each day be spent out of doors, and false modesty should not be allowed to interfere with so important a health measure.

The amount and kind of exercise which should be taken will depend largely upon previous habits. If she has been accustomed to doing housework, she should continue in most or even all of the exercise needed in domestic duties which are not too heavy for her.

Many women find that they become very weary about the work which was formerly done with ease, and therefore should be careful not to overtax their strength.

There are certain activities which the expectant mother should not undertake. Such housework as washing, scrubbing, moving heavy furniture should be avoided.

Must Be Cautious.

The usual out-of-door sports such as swimming, golf, and tennis cannot be recommended unreservedly. It is true that such vigorous exercises are often indulged in without mishap.

But the cautious woman will prefer limiting herself to those things which she knows to be safe. Walking is perhaps the best form of exercise, but should not be continued to the point of fatigue.

The mental state exerts a powerful influence upon bodily functions. Few realize to what extent one's physical condition may be impaired by mental strain and anxiety.

To avoid introspection, to cultivate a happy frame of mind, and to find some congenial diversion, will contribute materially to the health of the prospective mother.

UNSUCCESSFUL WIVES—NO. 2

By CYNTHIA GREY

I went over to my neighbors, Margie Forbes, the other day, to get the cooky-cutter that she'd borrowed.

Margie was sitting at the dining-room table, still in her kimono and bedroom slippers, although it was 10 o'clock.

The table was littered with coffee cups, crumpled napkins and the library book that Margie had been reading.

"I don't know what I'm sitting here for, when I've got a million dishes to wash," she complained. "All these ones from last night's dinner, besides. But really I'm so blue that I haven't enough pep to budge."

Then I saw that she had been crying.

"Fred was in one of his mean moods this morning," she went on. "Men are always grumpy in the morning." I comforted her.

"That's no excuse for them," Margie said. "I know why he's grumpy, too. That doesn't give me an excuse not to get up and cheerfully get breakfast without even taking the time to bathe and dress myself."

This was something new to me. I had never heard of a woman getting breakfast in anything but a house-dress or bungalow apron before. They belong to the same class of clothes that a chef's white cap does.

"Jim should have married one of these poison-neat women," Margie said slowly. "He has a fit if I leave the dinner dishes until the next morning."

HELPFUL HINTS

USE FOR CAMPHOR.

Blocks of camphor in all the corners of damp rooms in a new house will banish damp in a very short time.

REMOVES STAINS.

Obstinate stains can be removed by soaking in a weak solution of chloride of lime.

SCALES HANDY.

A kitchen scale, weighing as high as 25 pounds, is a great necessity in the kitchen, and the housewife who wishes to save will watch the weight of merchandise delivered to her.

TO TELL FABRICS.

To distinguish linen from cotton, drop a drop of glycerin on the fabric. On linen it will quickly be absorbed and form a transparent spot. On cotton it will not be absorbed, but roll about like mercury.

WASH MESH BAGS.

Wash a mesh bag in soapsuds containing ammonia. Dry by shaking in jeweler's sawdust.

MEASURE MOLASSES.

To measure molasses quickly, dip the measuring cup or spoon in scalding water first.

LEMON FOR FLAVORING.

Fruit juices should always be saved to be used in desserts and fruit drinks.

USE SOUR MILK.

Use sour milk with soda for gingerbread, biscuits, griddle cakes and such foods, and you will have lighter products than when you have only sweet milk.

BORAX EASY ON HANDS.

Borax water does not harm the hands as harsher cleansers do.

FOR PIANO KEYS.

To keep piano keys white and clean, rub them with a soft cloth moistened with alcohol, then rub dry with another cloth.

MECCA OCCUPIED BY THE WAHABIS.

JEDDAH—King Ali states that an advance party of Wahabis have entered Mecca. The situation is reported to be quiet, no excesses having been committed. King Ali is still at Jeddah, and his troops have been withdrawn from Bahara.

The Consul Corps at Jeddah has received a vaguely-worded message, bearing neither signature nor seal, containing assurances as to the safety of foreign subjects and, indeed, of all the inhabitants of Mecca.

Dreams

each has its own MEANING

There have been times when in your dream you have seen yourself frolicking with a huge crowd on the carnival grounds, or making merry in carnival spirit at some indoor affair.

Such a dream can be an omen of two things. If you seem to be by yourself in the crowd it is likely that you will soon take a journey to a place where you will make new friends.

If you are with friends, there are pleasant times ahead for you.

You will suffer seriously from competition in business if you see yourself unable to get on a crowded street car.

The booming of cannon or guns heard in a dream will cause you to awaken. It is a warning that you will have to act quickly to make your plans successful.

How To End a Cough Quickly.

Specialists say to actually end a cough in the shortest possible time the medicine should not only soothe and heal the soreness and irritation, but should also loosen and remove the phlegm and congestion which are the real cause of the coughing. When this is done the worst cough quickly disappears. This "double-action" method has been brought to perfection in the prescription known as Dr. King's Discovery for Coughs. A few drops stop the coughing spells almost instantly, and people who have been unable to sleep at night for coughing usually get their full night's rest even after the first dose. It has been many years since Dr. King's Discovery has been used for bronchitis, laryngitis, bronchial asthma, and hoarseness. On sale at all good druggists. Ask for Dr. King's Discovery for Coughs.

WATCH YOUR CAR POLICE WARNING NOW

Ruthless Enforcement of Parking Law Begins Today in Danville

The city police department today started out to enforce "without stint and to the utmost limit" the traffic ordinance parking regulations following a recommendation change by the Council Committee on Public Works. The ordinance provides for the parking of cars on Main street, throughout the night, and by city prisoners, painted parking zones on Main street and on all others where the thirty-minute parking restriction applies. Police Sergeant Edwards this morning informed a reporter that every officer on the force had been instructed to give assistance to the traffic department in reporting violations. The minimum fine for these offenses is $1.50.

As has been reported some leniency has been shown by traffic officers on the Main street parking regulations in view of an abnormal situation in the downtown section. The request by the council committee to enforce the law finds them ready to carry out the letter of the law and Sergeant Edwards made plain this morning that every violation no matter how slight would, if detected, result in a summons to court. For instance the regulation which requires that a four foot space shall be allowed between each car parked, the car is to be rigidly enforced although the question of who is to blame for violating this law would be difficult. John Smith might park his car properly at a given point with more than four feet clear space behind and before him and John Jones might come along in Smith's absence and park with a four feet of Smith's car and the vigilant officer would proceed against him in knowing who to proceed against.

The purpose said to be behind the proposed stringent enforcement of the parking laws is to show the public in an unmistakable way just what the law calls for.

Sergeant Edwards in discussing the matter this morning declared that the police did not want to see anybody suffer from the law and urged that the parking laws be strictly enforced in the downtown section so with care "The law has been put up to us to enforce and we are going to carry it out," he said.

Farmers and visitors from the country, however, he continued, will be granted the same courtesies given them heretofore and the instructions given to the police are not to apply the law strictly on visitors unlike to be cognizant of the city parking laws.

ANSWER HURRY CALL

A call received at police headquarters that a white man had been killed near the intersection of Gay and Hollbrook streets, sent officers at the courthouse out on doublequick time at 11:30 o'clock this morning. Police Sergeant James C. Elliott took Sergeant J. L. Edwards and Patrolman Otis Cook to the scene and quickly found that matters had been exaggerated. The officers reported that a white man whose identity has not been learned, attacked Ida Eanes, a negro, and that the woman's husband, arriving at that time, struck the man with a stick. Efforts are being made to locate the white man of whom a description has been given.

Community Chest Question Box

An interested citizen has asked the Community Chest Question Box the following questions:

What becomes of the money for the Y. M. C. A.? Everybody pays for what?

Ans. It is quite true that there are dues or as they are called membership fees at the Y. M. C. A., but the fact is as the figures very clearly show that the Y. M. C. A. does not draw from other departments of the building such as rent dormitory rooms and other services for which charges are made do not cover the expenditures of the institution. The total of all earnings at the building plus the amount asked of the Community Chest is equal to the total expenditures of the Y. M. C. A. Every effort is made to keep the fees to such a low figure as to put the Y. M. C. A. in all who care to avail themselves of the opportunity.

Ques. What becomes of the money at Hilltop? They have to pay there too.

Ans. The Hilltop sanatorium does take patients who are able to pay their own expenses and these are charged the regular sanatorium fees. However, there are others who do not have the funds necessary to care for their treatment and these are quite a good proportion of those treated. In order to care for these and take care of the charges for operation which are not covered by the earnings some other source of revenue must be used. The chest is the source applied to instead of the old fashioned drives resorted to prior to chest days.

Ques. How many patients were in the sanatorium reports today that during the month of October, there were 27 patients, eight of whom paid for their treatments and 19 who were unable to do so. Never-the-less they were given admittance and are being properly cared for.

The present speaker, Frederick H. Gillett, of Massachusetts, having been elected to the Senate, his name will not appear in the House contest. Representative Longworth of Ohio, a son-in-law of the late President Roosevelt, is one of those foremost in the speculation of the speaker's chair.

Both wets and dries pressed to gain comfort out of the congressional results.

EVERY CONTEST IN ILLINOIS IS DECIDED

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—Virtually every state and national contest in Illinois has been decided today. The downstate precincts of the state's 5,289 increased, in most cases, Republican majorities.

These ranged from President Coolidge's more than three-quarter million majority over John W. Davis and the half million majority of Charles S. Deneen, former governor and United States-elect over his Democratic opponent, Colonel A. D. Sprague, to the few thousands that separated the victors in several closely contested congressional districts.

Twenty Republican congressmen were elected in addition to two Republican incumbents who were replaced in two districts and returned in four. The result was in doubt in only one district, the twentieth, where Henry T. Rainey, Democratic incumbent, had a margin of 253 votes over Guy L. Shaw, Republican, with 59 precincts missing.

President Coolidge had 1,249,250; Davis, 488,431; and La Follette, 293,539. When 5,194 precincts had been unofficially reported.

Official returns from 5,916 precincts in the senatorial race gave Deneen, 1,175,271 and Sprague, 860,221.

Governor Len Small, Republican incumbent, held a lead of 330,000 over Norman L. Jones, Democrat.

REPUBLICAN LANDSLIDE

DENVER, COLO., Nov. 6.—President Coolidge maintained a majority of nearly 60,000 votes over the Democratic and independent presidential candidates in the face of returns compiled here early today. When 1,404 of the state's 1,494 precincts were in the vote, Coolidge, 1,841,139; Davis, 725,510; La Follette, 247,713.

The entire senatorial and congressional tickets, with one exception, were swept into office in the Republican landslide in this State. Representative Charles Taylor, of the fourth district, was the only Democrat on the face of complete returns who will be returned to Washington.

KENTUCKY REPUBLICAN

(By The Associated Press)

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 6.—With the latest compilation of unofficial returns showing a lead for Coolidge over Davis of 23,576 votes and a majority for Fred M. Sackett, Republican, of 20,213 over A. O. Stanley, Democratic incumbent in the senatorial race, Judge Samuel M. Wilson, Democratic state chairman, continued today in his refusal to admit defeat of his party in Kentucky on Tuesday's election.

With 63 precincts missing the vote stood: Coolidge, 333,399; Davis, 369,023; La Follette, 33,676.

WOMEN TAKE STEP TOWARD WHITE HOUSE

Road to Presidency Smoothed Considerably For Fair Sex

By O. L. SCOTT

(Copyright, 1924, By The Bee)

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 6.—Women took one step more toward the white house at this election, but failed to strengthen their lines materially in the move to build a feminist bloc in congress. The advance was in a new quarter, toward executive responsibility in politics, while the fight for legislative representation marked time.

Out of the present melee have come Governor Miriam A. "Ma" Ferguson, ruler of Texas, and Governor Nellie T. Ross, Chief executive of Wyoming, the nation's first feminine political potentates. In the executive chair of the commonwealths they are to govern, these women are just one jump from the presidential heads of the state next in responsibility to the chief magistrate of the nation.

If they measure up to the demands of their task, and solidify their advance so that others of their sex may step up with them in elections to come, the road to the presidency will be smoothed off considerably for women. The fact the first feminine executives rode into office on the shoulders of their husbands' tails is a way none of the glory for them in the achievement.

But in the battle for legislative honors the feminists barely held their own. Near all of the prettier sex went down in defeat, while none was able to break into the upper house of the congress which has remained uninvaded to the present.

Mrs. Mary T. Norton, of Jersey, New Jersey, upheld the feminine honors by breaking into the house of representatives as the first woman elected east of the Mississippi. She bears another distinction as a woman "wet," vice chairman of the Democratic state committee. Her duty will be to carry on the battle for recognition of the woman.

Mrs. Nolan, only woman representative in the present congress managed, re-election.

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 6.—Women took one step more toward the white house at this election, but failed to strengthen their lines materially in the move to build a feminist bloc in congress. The advance was in a new quarter, toward executive responsibility in politics, while the fight for legislative representation marked time.

Out of the present melee have come Governor Miriam A. "Ma" Ferguson, ruler of Texas, and Governor Nellie T. Ross, Chief executive of Wyoming, the nation's first feminine political potentates. In the executive chair of the commonwealths they are to govern, these women are just one jump from the presidential heads of the state next in responsibility to the chief magistrate of the nation.

If they measure up to the demands of their task, and solidify their advance so that others of their sex may step up with them in elections to come, the road to the presidency will be smoothed off considerably for women. The fact the first feminine executives rode into office on the shoulders of their husbands' tails is a way none of the glory for them in the achievement.

But in the battle for legislative honors the feminists barely held their own. Near all of the prettier sex went down in defeat, while none was able to break into the upper house of the congress which has remained uninvaded to the present.

Mrs. Mary T. Norton, of Jersey, New Jersey, upheld the feminine honors by breaking into the house of representatives as the first woman elected east of the Mississippi. She bears another distinction as a woman "wet," vice chairman of the Democratic state committee. Her duty will be to carry on the battle for recognition of the woman.

Mrs. Nolan, only woman representative in the present congress managed, re-election.

Whether Mrs. Nelson is to have assistance after this is doubtful, as she is not a Democrat and Republican headquarters here, who announce that they are without information that other feminine candidates for national legislative office have succeeded.

In most states, however, women have strengthened their legislative positions bulwarking their stand for future advances in the legislative section.

It is as chief executive of states that the feminine politicians are to shine. "Ma" Ferguson, future ruler of the great Lone Star State, is going to devote her main attention to education, from the rural schools to the university. She announces, now, that victory is assured, that it is her intention to be a "real" governor. She will attempt to conduct her husband, James E. Ferguson, whose record as governor brought about his impeachment a few years ago.

Mrs. Ross, probable winner of the governorship of Wyoming, states that she will conduct her office in a way that will allow "none ever again to assert that women are unfit for high executive office." She wishes so to conduct state affairs that the example of her rule will be a model for women everywhere to achieve leadership as chief magistrate of states.

With these two women strengthening the advance of their sex toward the highest office of the land, the feminists in politics are now less they may have a candidate for president. They count on their two time enormous victory in the election that will display the ability and poise demanded of a successful executive.

Mrs. Ross is starting on the same track that led President to political power. She goes into the campaign with a full program of speeches, with just a simple declaration that she would do before her, so that it might not be said that women are incapable of exercising executive responsibility. Former Governor William B. Ross, she had offered only a stay-at-home campaign from the state's executive mansion.

Mrs. Ferguson was more militant. She was on the stump with her husband throughout the campaign. While she led "Pa" to most of the voters could appraise her position.

The new congresswoman, Mrs. Norton will carry on the women's fight in the house of representatives. Her political work has already been brought to recognition by the State Democratic organization and her welfare work and charity activities made her widely known among voters.

All in all the women contend that the most marked gains in the past battle, even though unable to strengthen their hold in congress.

Danville Lions Hear Kneebone In Chest Appeal

(By The Associated Press)

The Danville Lions Club held its regular bi-monthly meeting yesterday at the Burton hotel and listened to a program of business and entertainment.

The business session included a report from Rev. C. Cleveland Hall, who represented the Danville Lions at the charter presentation meeting of the Petersburg Lions Club, attended by representatives of all the Virginia clubs of that name.

Vice President E. M. Moss, presiding in the absence of President Harrison, introduced Lion Bob Kneebone, of Charleston, W. Va., who spoke on the approaching Community Chest campaign, soliciting the co-operation of the membership in putting over the drive for funds to support the participating organizations.

Grasty Crews, chairman of the program committee, introduced Messrs. Adams, Phillips, Benazzi and Hall, who favored the members with two quartet selections which were heartily enjoyed.

The business talk was given by Lion John W. Nunn, of the Virginia Hardware company, who told in an interesting manner of the many things that make up the daily life of the hardware man, pointing to the fact that there were thirteen such stores in Danville today. He spoke of the fascination of the business and the constant attention necessary in handling everything from pocket knives to plow points.

The program closed with the recitation of two poems by Moses Simon, a small colored boy with a large memory, who convulsed the Lions with his "orations." Dave Owens drew the attendance prize.

ERRORS PUT BROOKHART IN LEAD IN IOWA

(By The Associated Press)

DES MOINES, Ia., Nov. 6.—A partial recount on returns from a senatorial election at 11 a. m. showed Senator Smith W. Brookhart to be leading his Democratic opponent, Daniel F. Steck, of Ottumwa, by slightly more than 700 votes. An early count showed Brookhart, uncovered by County Auditor Kauffman, at Storm Lake, was the biggest factor in enhancing the standing. Other additions were made to Brookhart's total in half a dozen counties.

BIG VOTE IN MICHIGAN

TRENTON, N. Senator James Couzens was returned to the United States Senate by a majority almost as large, defeating Dean Norrimer E. Cooley, of the University of Michigan, Democrat. Governor Alex J. Groesbeck ran slightly behind the president and Senator Couzens, but still had a narrow three to one lead over his Democratic opponent.

AL. SMITH TO NAME MAJORS IN TAKE MATTERS CHEST CAMPAIGN EASY A WHILE SOON TO BEGIN

Roosevelt Admits Surprise But Says He Is Not Dead Politically

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Governor Alfred E. Smith elected to the chief executive position in New York state for the third time in Tuesday's election, though President Coolidge carried the state, will take a short rest after his strenuous campaign against his Republican opponent, Colonel Theodore Roosevelt.

He will remain in New York City for several days, visiting his dentist and then will return to Albany to clean up an accumulation of work.

Later he probably will go to Frenchville Springs, in the hope of successfully treating the rheumatism which forced him to interrupt his tour of New England in the interests of the national ticket.

He spent yesterday receiving hundreds of messages of congratulations on his victory, including one from Colonel Roosevelt.

The governor made his first public appearance after the election, last night, when he was called to the stage during the performance of a musical revue by one of the actors and received an ovation.

Colonel Roosevelt spent a quiet day yesterday. He said that he planned to take a vacation and then would "get to work." He declined to discuss his plans further than this.

At the theatre last night the governor was roped and led to the stage by Will Rogers, the comedian, who referred to him as "our next Democratic president—if there ever is one."

"Then we would like to know whether you would be willing to go down to Washington," Rogers went on. "You have the trucking outfit, you know, (referring to the governor's private business connections), and you are the only man I know who could move from Albany to Washington cheaper than anyone else. Tell me about it, would you be willing to go down there with them?"

"If you come along, as my secretary I might take a chance," replied the governor.

"I would not go to Albany with you," said Rogers. "I could not associate with all those Republicans. You know about the legislature. Oh boy, they will be going to do to you. They will murder you up there."

Among the congratulatory messages received by Governor Smith, was this from A. Mitchell Palmer, who was attorney general under President Wilson:

"I heartily congratulate you on your personal triumph. The nation's Democracy must now look to you as its leader."

George E. Brennan, democratic leader of Illinois, sent the following message: "You are the eighth wonder of the world. Congratulations."

Asked if he expected to encounter much difficulty in getting his policies through the legislature, both branches of which he would lead, Governor Smith said he did not fear a deadlock.

"Deadlock talk is a joke," he said. "It only furnishes these fellows with a bum alibi. I got more progress made during the past two years with a republican assembly than has been accomplished in many years. Governor Miller had both branches of the legislature with him and yet what single piece of progressive legislation did he accomplish? There were many things I was able to get through the legislature in spite of the opposition."

Colonel Roosevelt admitted his surprise at Governor Smith's victory in New York City, and declared the Bronx and the East Side had been particularly disappointing to him. He expressed the belief that many who greeted him during his campaign and pledged support were only surprised from people who admitted they liked him "but it was too bad he was running against Al Smith."

"You are a good fellow," they wrote, "but too young and inexperienced to lead."

Colonel Roosevelt refused to look upon his defeat as the end of his political career.

"Do they think I am dead politically?" he asked. "They are saying lots of things. I suppose—but I am not worrying. A little rest, which I intended to take whether I won or lost, will put me back in the front line again."

Out today, Governor Smith's plurality in New York City was $14,818, the largest any candidate for office ever received. President Coolidge carried the city by 137,834. The governor's plurality in the State, including the city, was 115,705, with 104 upstate precincts missing.

ABINGDON MAN DIES

BRISTOL, Va., Nov. 5.—David G. Rose, aged 72 years, Abingdon, Va., undertaker, who was seriously injured in an automobile accident two weeks ago, died at his home in Abingdon today.

Mr. Rose and another man were passengers of a motor hearse when it was struck by a passenger train at a crossing near Abingdon. The hearse was demolished and both men were taken to the hospital seriously injured.

WHY BE OFFENSIVE WITH BAD BREATH?

Mr. J. Perry of 792 Dekalb Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y., writes:

"I awakened each morning with an unpleasant taste and was often reminded by my wife that my breath was disagreeable."

"I tried perfumed tablets, mouth washes and other camouflages which gave only temporary relief."

"After consulting my dentist and finding my teeth in good condition, I confided in a friend, who suggested that possibly my trouble was constitutional—faultry intestinal climination. After taking a few doses of Carter's Little Liver Pills, my stomach and bowels were relieved, foul and impure gases eliminated."

"I now enjoy a wholesome breath as well as improved health. Carter's Little Liver Pills are small, easy to take, move the bowels in a gentle manner—without discomfort and distress."

A MIND-TRAINING FAD

Everyone who has observed American life over a period of years can recall games, songs, catchwords and fashions that swept the country like wildfire, becoming immensely popular in an astonishingly short time but soon losing their hold on the people's fancy. In retrospect most of these fads or crazes seem rather silly. The passion for cross-word puzzles now manifesting itself is a rather unique craze in that it meets with the commendation of persons who usually are not in sympathy with fads. The reason for their approving attitude is that solution of these fascinating puzzles creates thirst for knowledge, broadens the mind and stimulates the imagination.

It is rather amusing to find educators and psychologists solemnly discussing the benefits that will come from what in most persons' minds is probably nothing more than an entertaining hobby. But it must be admitted that the servants have good reason for their optimism, concerning the effects that the interest in cross-word puzzles is to have on the American people.

Never before in all probability were men and women, boys and girls consulting the dictionary and the encyclopedia in search for elusive words to the extent that they now are. Hunting for the words that will fit certain definitions they are adding to their knowledge of all sort of things. They are learning about birds, beasts, chemicals, battles, treasures, eminent men of the past—everything in fact that has a name that can be looked into a puzzle. They are enriching their vocabularies and improving their orthography.

But that is not all. One authority on psychology says of the cross-word puzzle: "It is the best method in the world of increasing mental alertness." Another says: "Of course there are things which might improve the mind more, but as a diversion the cross-word puzzle takes a new position in mental gymnastics." One of the great beauties of cross-word puzzles is that they cost nothing, and there is an infinite variety to them. If none is at hand for the devotee to work on, he can get stimulation and pleasure by making one himself for the preparation of the puzzle is as interesting as the solution.

NO DISEASES BY 1974?

Within 50 years, chemists and physicians will have discovered cures for nearly all examples of the human body, including such dread maladies as cancer. So predicts Dr. William S. Nichols, former president of American Chemical Society.

Then no one would die until the body just naturally wore out like an aged machine. Little accidents and such killers as lightning. It is pleasant to entertain this.

Why wait 50 years? The famous Dr. Whig, in his eulogy, recently said, "If luxury could be destroyed and all houses burned to drive us outdoors, the diseases which kill us old and middle-aged men would disappear."

Disease as a rule is not much to fear. The great danger is in a lowering of the body's powers of resisting or fighting off disease.

And lowered resistance is an inevitable result of living an unnatural life. Of course, as time goes on, man's body adapts itself to its environment—becomes immune to conditions and germs that have killed city-dwellers before long environment led to immunization.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS.

In A City Of Unknown

As I write this Talk I am in a city of over 100,000 people. I am alone.

How strange it is to walk down the street with so many people passing you and yet not knowing a single one? It would be unconventional—so it is recorded—to speak to anyone, excepting under extraordinary circumstances.

So I just walk on and look into faces. And this is what I see: that the worst of me (which I see and know) exists inside those masks, and also the best of me—and also my "Better I."

We humans are all alike and all different. A world of folks such as we are couldn't have "just happened."

When we think simply and directly and honestly our thoughts are the thoughts of the same people who walk down the street and pass us not caring one way or the other about us.

One of the greatest of the earth might pass us and we not know. I came down on an elevator not long ago in which was one of the greatest inventors of all time. He was a simple, quiet man, dignified and kind. I think that I was the only one who knew who he was. I read long ago of his struggle and almost super-human will in overcoming great obstacles.

It is the inspiration that is potential in a crowd that keeps us from feeling so lonesome when we walk with it. Almost any moment some one might be "introduced" to us and we would have found a common spirit happy to learn that we were in the crowd too.

So, in a city of unknowns, we are but amongst those who are broken parts of us—made from the goods and bad of all that we are. I like to act in a strange city as though I really belonged there and knew everybody.

I am sure that this would be a much happier world if people were more friendly toward each other. Why should human beings fight those who are so much like themselves, or try to take advantage of them?

Originally we all came from the same blood. Therefore, we are a family—a great big one!

THE REFEREE

By Albert Apple

LINCOLN

When Abraham Lincoln ran for president his campaign fund was only $100,000. Douglas spent half as much.

Bryan ran three times. His fund averaged $600,000 for each campaign. McKinley held the record for a single candidate, his fund in 1896 being $16,500,000. The 1924 funds will be known later.

PASSPORTS

American Bankers' Association urges Uncle Sam to negotiate with foreign governments to eliminate the passport system. Then you could travel freely from one country to another.

No chance. The passport in Europe is more a police than a tourist device. We might profit by the German system, making every new arrival in a town report to police headquarters within 24 hours to get his "papers" o. k'd. Fugitives would be more readily traced, even in a large country.

SURGEON

Kentucky mountaineers usually sit up and watch with interest while they are being operated on, says Dr. S. C. Smith of Ashland, Ky. In his hospital $5 out of 100 operations are performed while the patient is conscious and watching. "Freezing" and other local anesthetics, take the place of more dangerous inhaled ones.

Only a few generations since patients had to be operating table, screaming while legs were sawed off. The invention of anesthetics was one of the greatest blessings, even though it did permit a lot more operations than are necessary.

STOLEN

Five autos, stolen in New York, were traced to Holland where they had been sold. This leads to arrest of three "leaders of an international auto-stealing ring" something new in crime exports and big enterprises.

It emphasizes that the theft of autos is becoming a highly organized criminal industry. One way to check it is to make all car drivers carry papers proving their ownership, with fingerprints and signatures attached.

CALAMITY

Cheap money (low interest rates on loans) is a "grave danger," claims the economist of a big eastern bank. He fears it will start a flow of funds from central markets into farm land speculation.

Maybe so. But we've an idea the farmer will not view this as dangerous as high loan rates that often drive him to the wall.

STRENGTH

John de Vito, 18, modern Samson, is shown in news pictures lifting one end of an auto holding 13 people. Any one can do the same with a lifting jack.

Brute strength doesn't count much any more, except in occupations where inventors have not yet figured out how to use machinery instead of human muscles. What counts is: How much can you lift mentally?

A rosebud mouth is a very beautiful thing—while closed.

Commonplaces

This is very commonplace, but true.

All the world will smile at you.

There is a whisper everywhere.

Lars no one wants to meet.

Therefore, keep your record fair.

Never be and never cheat.

No one ever speaks the praise of a surly man and mean.

No one ever likes the wage of the vulgar and unclean.

Of the vulgar and unclean.

Habit is your worst enemy.

Why be one the world will hate.

Why not seek for what is best?

Misers draw their fellows' scorn.

So, of selfishness beware.

With the right to choose we're born.

Why not follow what is fair?

Men admire the youth who tries.

All upon the idler frown.

Therefore, why not seek to rise?

Why deliberately go down?

Be you cheerful, brace and kind.

Keep the simplest pledge you give.

And wherever you go you'll find.

Friends about you while you live.

Do your best at every turn.

Hail another when you can.

This is all you need to learn:

All the world admires a man!

How to Torture Your Wife

The Affair at Flower Acres
 © 1924 by NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Douglas Raynor is found shot through the heart in the early evening on the floor of the sun room of Flower Acres, his Long Island home. Standing over the dead man, pistol in hand, is Malcolm Finley, former sweetheart of Raynor's wife, Nancy. Raynor, Raynor's nurse, stands by the light switch. In a moment Nancy appears, white-faced and terrified. Orville Kent, Nancy's brother, comes in from the south side of the room. And then Ezra Goddard, friend of Finley; Miss Mattie, Raynor's sister, and others, enter upon the scene. Detection. An autopsy reveals that Raynor also was being systematically poisoned with arsenic. Raynor, son of Douglas Raynor, his father's marriage, comes to claim his father's body in New York. Finally confesses to poisoning Douglas Raynor out of revenge. "This was my revenge—to see him cringe and crawl," she said.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"This is a strange confession, Miss Turner," Dobbins said.

"But a true one," she returned. "And remember I did not kill him. His wife did that—and I for one, do not blame her."

She looked compassionately at Nancy, but in a cool, detached way. The other present on this occasion were Finley, Goddard, and Orville Kent.

Ezra Goddard was deeply interested. Malcolm Finley's countenance was impassive. Of them all, Orville Kent seemed the most disturbed. As always, when he was nervously excited, he sat twisting the corners of his handkerchief into spirals.

There was deep affection between this brother and sister, and the older, he thought, that Kent was in love with Miss Turner? She was—she must be, at least ten years or so older than he, though, as Dobbins knew, that might not prove an insuperable barrier to such a condition of things.

Again, Miss Turner, though a fine-looking wholesome woman, was in to be a charmer or even especially attractive in her appearance.

But unless for some such reason, Dobbins couldn't divine why Kent was so desperately unerved, even alarmed, the detective thought.

But as Eva Turner continued to talk, it began to be more clear that while she was confessing her own part in the affair she was also making ready for a graver accusation against someone else.

She had said that Nancy Raynor had shot her husband, and made the definite statement that she was sure of it.

"Did you see Mrs. Raynor with the pistol in her hand?" Dobbins asked.

"This is a grave statement you're making, Miss Turner."

"No; I didn't see that—for the simple reason that I didn't flash the lights on quickly enough for that."

"Tell me exactly what you did see when the lights did go on."

"I saw Mr. Finley picking up the pistol, and Mrs. Raynor fleeing out the west door."

"Your testimony is of the greatest importance, Miss Turner, so I will ask you to be very careful what you say. You're sure Mrs. Raynor was fleeing—I take that word to mean running away from possible discovery."

"That is exactly what she was doing," Eva Turner nodded her head.

"Did Mr. Finley look frightened?"

"He looked more disturbed—bewildered, puzzled. I should say he picked up the pistol with the intention of helping to shield Mrs. Raynor, either by taking the crime on his own shoulders—or at least by removing her fingerprints from the weapon. He was already rubbing it with his handkerchief when I looked at him."

"You have reconstructed this affair very definitely, Miss Turner. You must have thought over it a great deal."

"I have. I have lived that scene over and over in my mind."

"With the idea of making up this poppycock yarn?" Orville Kent burst out.

"And then Dobbins understood the situation. He had shown. He had realized that, although Eva Turner admitted the poisoning, she meant to bring the shooting back to Nancy and Kent was apprehensive for his sister."

He was, therefore, Dobbins decided, making ready now to put up a bold fight and he started in by trying to turn the tables and lay the crime at Eva Turner's door.

"But, no, Kent did not go as far as that. He held up his hand, still shaking nervously, and said:

"I protest this woman's testimony. I insist that it is not worthy of credence. She has admitted that she tried to poison Douglas Raynor, is it to be allowed her, then, to accuse someone else of bringing about his death? Is she not disqualified as a witness? Would she not lay the crime on somebody rather than that suspicious shadow that rests on her?"

She said that Mrs. Raynor, running out of the door, suppose she was supposed Mrs. Raynor, hearing the shot, ran to the room to see what had happened.

Darkness, and then, when Miss Turner put on the lights, she saw the tragedy—and, of course, she ran from the room. The most natural thing to do, I make no accusation myself, I offer no suggestion, but I hold, Mr. Dobbins, that you must not take this woman's unsupported word for what happened that night."

"You are right," Ezra Goddard said. "I agree, Mr. Dobbins, that such a deeply interested party as Miss Turner cannot be depended on for an unbiased account of what occurred."

Kent looked relieved at this support of his own opinions, and settled back in his chair, still twisting his handkerchief, and not and then glancing sympathetically at Nancy.

A short time previously Lionel Raynor had drifted into the room. He silently took a seat, and listened with attention.

At last he spoke. "I suppose as my father's son and heir, I have some voice in this matter," he said. "I want to put it on record that so far as I am concerned, I am willing to drop the investigation. I accuse no one. I make no suggestion, drop no hint as to who the criminal may have been. It was any member of this household, I don't want to know it. And if it was some marauder from outside, I feel sure there's no chance of getting him now. So, Mr. Dobbins, you can call off your assistants—for a still hunt for clues. I did, at first, feel a most natural desire to avenge my father's death, but for more than one reason I now feel I would rather the matter be dropped. This I think will meet the approval of my father's widow, and I cannot see that there is any one else to be considered."

"Oh, you can't!" exclaimed Dobbins, looking at Lionel curiously.

"Well, let me tell you, Mr. Raynor, the law doesn't work or rest at the dictation of a mere citizen! Justice calls for the utmost effort on our part to find the murderer of Douglas Raynor—and Justice must run its own course."

Kent, who had nodded his head eagerly in affirmation of Lionel's speech, again looked east down at Dobbins' words. He fell back in his chair, and as his fingers worked nervously, he looked at his sister with a face of infinite sadness and despair.

Detective Dobbins looked around the group.

There was a man of limited intelligence, but he had the wisdom to recognize his own limitations. And he sighed to himself as he realized that there was a big case, a big situation—both alike, too big for him to handle. He almost said as much, but paused in time, knowing that was not the part of wisdom.

"By a chance," he said, "we have here now the four people who stood at the four doors of the sun parlor at the time Mr. Raynor was shot. Oh, yes, I know Mr. Kent came to the south door about ten minutes after the shot, but I hold that even in the dusk he would have seen any one along by that door, so he was practically a guardian of that exit."

"Not at all, Mr. Dobbins," Orville Kent's eyes glittered with excitement, but his voice was steady. "I came up from the bridge, and as I walked along I wasn't even looking toward the house."

"Where were you looking?"

"West—at the afterglow of the sunset. It was growing dark but Fifteen minutes passed and hard-boiled Bill's air of bravado began to fade. He grew a shade paler and seemed a trifle nervous.

JUNIOR RED CROSS IS A MORAL FORCE

Willis Lutton, superintendent of schools in Atlanta, Ga., says "The greatest organization to put a stop to war, and remove the causes of war, not even excepting the League of Nations" is the American Junior Red Cross. "One of its fundamental contributions and education is the altruistic element it has given education," as one school boy expressed it. "The Junior Red Cross makes you feel like a very little I and a great big You."

There are no funds or dues for membership either in the part of the school or the individual child. Any money contributed for Junior Red Cross projects are expected to be entirely voluntary; and the "Service Fund" is called that not only because it is used in service, but also because it is earned by service.

The Danville chapter of the American Red Cross will begin its annual roll call next Monday.

The Best Cough Syrup is Home-made

Here's an easy way to make it, and yet have the best cough remedy you ever tried.

You've probably heard of this well-known plan of making cough syrup at home. But have you ever used it? When you do, you will understand why thousands of families, the world over, feel that they could hardly keep house without it. It's simple and cheap, but the way it takes hold of better coughs quickly and is a permanent place in your home.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to fill up to the neck. If desired, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, never spoils, and gives you a full pint of better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times its cost.

It is really wonderful how quickly this home-made remedy conquers a cough—usually in 24 hours or less. It seems to penetrate through every air passage, loosens a dry, hoarse or tight cough, lifts the phlegm, heals the membranes, and gives almost immediate relief. Splendid for throat tickle, hoarseness, croup, bronchitis and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract and has been used for generations for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

15 ROOMS AND OFFICES HAVE BEEN FURNISHED AT HILLTOP

Probably no movement has had a wider field of publicity than the tuberculosis problems of the community and nation. The Federal, state and local health authorities are giving more and more time to the solution of this problem, which if we left go would take a terrific toll in lives annually. True the losses in man power under present conditions of control are appalling, but are trivial compared to those that would prevail if this great fight were not waged down to the finest detail.

Danville and the surrounding area are meeting this great need in a most effective manner through a sanatorium known locally as Hilltop located about a mile outside the city limits. Here persons in every stage of the disease are cared for and restored to health and strength and their return made possible to their pursuits in life.

As it is at present arranged there are facilities for 30 inmates in the main building which also houses the clinic room, dispensing room, dental examiners room, and nurses office. Off the back of the main building is the kitchen where are prepared appetizing foods of a kind that will give the most nourishment to the patients and aid most in their recovery.

Nurses' Home. The upstairs are devoted to the nurses' home and extends over only the center section of the building. The sanatorium is at present under the direction of Miss Helen A. Koss, who has specialized in tuberculosis work.

At one side of the main building is located a small cottage with a capacity of six patients making the total bed space as at present arranged 36. This is a constant demand on the sanatorium says, "People in Danville really appreciate the great job we are performing up here. Our patients are all happy and contented and are all anxious to get well. We are receiving splendid cooperation now and have in the past from societies and clubs in Danville. Their little acts of kindness help so much to make the lives of the patients just a little more cheerful."

Waddill Memorial Glass at Dinner

The annual dinner of the W. W. Waddill Memorial Bible class of the First Baptist church at the Country Club last night from 7:30 until 10 o'clock was attended by about one hundred, including the members, guests, and a large number of ladies in the entertainment features of the after-dinner program and a few invited guests. It was in the nature of a sociability supper in which each guest wore a beribboned name-card which served effectively as an introduction on an occasion wherein cordiality and hospitality were pre-eminent.

Oratorically and in point of solicitude, the address of Dr. Roldix Harlan, professor of sociology in the University of Richmond, was the feature. This scholarly gentleman spoke for perhaps half a hour, choosing as his theme, Community Consciousness, which he said might in some ways be regarded as an equivalent of community conscience. The address had been preceded by orchestral music attuned to a lively key, and by typical songs and other vocal numbers, and it was followed by a songster, followed by some stunts, such as the several business-social clubs customarily pull at their dinners. To many of the ladies these sometimes startling features were novel and the program was vividly carried out as it looked at one time as if two of the diners would also be carried out by police officers. But since all ended well such a contretemps was averted.

The evening's program, after full dinner with trimmings, cake au lait and cigars, was opened with the singing of "America" by the entire company, followed by a blessing invoked by Dr. H. J. Langston. A President, J. P. Surles then made a happy little introductory address presenting W. P. Boatwright, veteran teacher of the class, who in turn made a brief talk and then took charge of the program. His first duty was to introduce Dr. J. P. Craft, of the University of Virginia, who made the real introductory address in a vein of pleasantness and closed by introducing Dr. Harlan.

Dr. Harlan's address was a thoughtful and entirely serious one and was a definition of the term, community consciousness and an application of the idea in a very timely way to the commendation of community work. He spoke without note, but with fluency and well ordered presentation of sequential ideas leading up to his application of the theme.

Mr. Boatwright, who is the father of this community beneficence idea in the practical turn given the theme by Dr. Harlan and expressed his appreciation.

The musical feature of the evening was a vocal solo by R. M. Alexander, of New York, who accompanied himself on piano. Miss Harrison, one of the local friends, Mr. Alexander has an unusually fine basso, and his singing of "Asleep in the Deep" evoked the warmest expressions of appreciation, but he had to decline to respond again, owing to having gone of his music with him.

Miss Mabel Stafford, introduced as the adopted daughter of the class, was programmed for a song, but in the past.

lients just a little more cheerful. "No one realizes just how much a kind word means to them and how they are on in the biggest battle of their careers. The radio also adds to the round of life up here, she added, and serves to keep up the spirits. The patients especially like the music of orchestras."

"Without the aid of the Community Chest I don't know what we would do. It has meant we have been able to carry our message of good health to a great host of folks and the war," she added. "We, who do these tasks always look forward to the one big drive in Danville which we know cannot be anything, but as in the past a great big success."

stead she gave a reading very effectively and showed fine promise of excellence in the field of expression. During the evening, William H. Parker led the gathering in a number of the familiar and popular dinner songs, W. Howard Dodson assisting in getting out the full volume of sound. Most of these songs stunts were amusing and all very clever.

A quartet of young ladies also sang a series of verses in which personal references and pleasanties were perpetrated upon some of the guests, and these caused laughter and fun.

The final stunt was the irruption of a trio of police officers, Sergeant John L. Edwards and Mr. Belton, of the Danville force, and Mr. Chaney of the Schoolfield Police. They had with them two fruit jars containing a colorless liquid which a few favored ones were permitted to sniff—that's all—by way of identifying its nature or denature. The jars of the club, after concealing the jars outside. The startling suspicions of the trip introduced another jar. An impromptu trial of the suspect as to whether it was the same as the one in which the culprits were adjudged guilty and sentenced to ninety days at Sunday school.

The programme closed with prayer by Rev. J. M. Shelburne, D. D.

GIRL, OUT OF WORK, LOITERS AT DEPOT; FIND JOB FOR HER

Not long ago a boy left his home in a little Carolina town intent on meeting his uncle in Richmond, who had sent him plowing reports of the opportunities for securing employment. He came on, full of hope and with his future painted to himself in the most glowing colors. However, before he left he had neglected to send any sort of message with the result that by the time he arrived in Richmond his uncle had left for a place unknown to his friends. The boy's small fund of money was soon gone for food and as no work could be found he started out on an aimless march that brought him at last to Danville.

The night he arrived was cold and wet for it was in mid-winter and the boy was hungry. He had lived on the handouts of food from kind people along his path. Most of the nights had been spent in the open. He was taken in by the Travelers Aid and given dry clothing while his wet garments were dried. Money was supplied for his food, and a lodging provided at the Salvation Army. Let us say that he was given him and he was sent to his Carolina home.

A few weeks later a girl was noticed loafing in the vicinity of the railroad station. Her clothing was ragged and shabby and because of her loitering she was taken in charge by the Travelers Aid Society and questioned.

The interview revealed that she had been staying at one of the small hotels, was unable to pay her bill, and was on the board of the society. A job was secured and new clothing provided for her. The manager realizing the efforts being made in her behalf and not previously cancelled the board bill against her.

This is but one of the splendid services that this agency, a member of the Community Chest is doing for the citizens of Danville. The citizens respond to the appeal for funds that will be made the week of the 17th this and other similar pieces of social work cannot go on. Still no one doubts that Danville will rise to the occasion. She always has in the past.

A scene from the outstanding dramatic hit of the past two years in New York, "Seventh Heaven." Coming to the Majestic, November 17th.

Just a bevy of some of the beauties in L. Lawrence Weber's Musical Comedy sensation "LITTLE JESSIE JAMES"

Majestic Theatre, Tuesday Evening, November 11th.

"SEVENTH HEAVEN" IS HERE ON NOV. 17

Danville will have a theatrical performance of metropolitan importance on Monday Nov. 17 when John Golden's latest dramatic sensation, "Seventh Heaven" will come to Majestic Theatre.

Mr. Strong, who wrote "Seventh Heaven" also is the author of "Three Wise Fools." The play was originally presented at the Booth Theatre, New York, two years ago, and held its place as the outstanding dramatic hit of two New York seasons, finally quitting Broadway with a record of 754 consecutive presentations. Great as has been the success of his other plays, Mr. Golden feels that their records eventually will be second to the achievements of "Seventh Heaven."

The action of "Seventh Heaven" takes place in Paris. Mr. Strong used the events of the French Mobilization in 1914 and the Armistice Day celebration in 1918 as a background for his story, but the theme itself, that of human courage, arises above locale and language. This year the play will be presented in at least two languages other than English. The Moscow Art Theatre, seen in America a year ago, will play it in Russian, and Andre Charlotte will present it in Paris. Recently an Italian translation was made for Maschagni, the Italian composer, who is now studying it as the basis for an opera. Outside America the play also will be presented in London and Australia. Mr. Golden himself will present it in London at the Shaftesbury Theatre, in October, with Charles Dillingham, the New York manager, Sid Grauman, the Los Angeles theatre magnate, and the London producing firm of Grossmith and Malone for his associates. Its first Australian performance will take place at His Majesty's Theatre, Sydney, in November, under the Williamson management.

The company which will play "Seventh Heaven" here is an excellent one, including among its players, Remy Carpen, Douglas MacPherson, John W. Ransome, Mat Briggs, John MacSweeney, Mona Morgan, Gale Gordon, James Newcombe, Ruth Morris, Neil O'Malley, Homer Hunt, Robert Bennett, Harriet Gray and Lionel Joseph.

WHITMELL SCHOOL TAKES FIRST PRIZE

WHITMELL, Va., Nov. 5.—Basking its exhibits in the school booth, floats and parade, at the Putnam school fair, last Friday, and the school's aim of "Better Citizenship," Whitmell High school took first prizes on its school booth, float and manual art department. Fourth prizes on community exhibits and athletic events, having the distinction of taking a prize in each event in which Whitmell was represented.

"The Making of a citizen" was the idea stressed in the school booth, which represented every phase of the school's activity. The school motto, creed, work representative of each department, various charts and posters all helped in the development of the paramount purpose of the exhibit. A unique feature of the exhibit was the sand-table on the floor, showing with its imitations of houses, public buildings, farm implements, dolls, and playground, the goal toward which Whitmell is working.

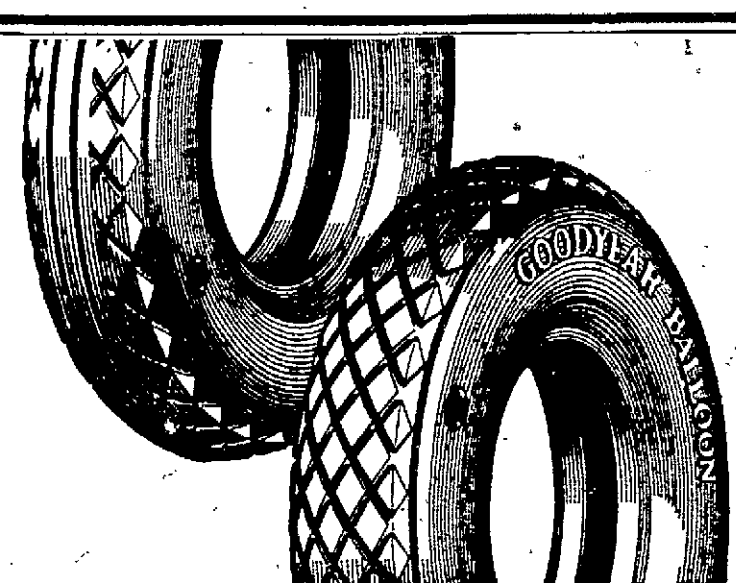

The idea of citizenship in the parade was carried out by a large red, white and blue ship, "The Citizen," while hung about the ship in the flower of life preservers were the main points of the educational program of the school, just preceding the parade, another float carried the queen of county life and her attendants, the floats being followed by the students on float carrying various placards and banners.

School plays. On Saturday evening, Nov. 8th, at 8 p. m., the school will present an old time negro minstrel for the benefit of the school library. With a medley of jokes, puns, songs, gags and a one-act black face farce, the program promises to be a good one and well worth seeing.

"The monthly program of the Whitmell Community League to be given Friday evening will be in charge of the first and second grades, who will present an operetta and "Humpty Dumpty." This is following the usual custom of having the program, each one prepared by different organizations of the school.

WHY CAN EFIRD'S

Undersell and Give Better Values
Than Other Merchants?

Some of The Reasons:

1st. Because we all work. There is no one on Efird's payroll but what produces.

2nd. Because we are a home made Southern Chain of Stores, operating on our own resources without the dictates of high finance committees and non-producing high salaried officers.

3rd. While we call ourselves a Chain Store, each EFIRD store is a local store in each town. We operate in each store a separate corporation making it strictly local in every respect; we contribute to the upbuilding of all the cities and towns in which we operate.

4th. EFIRD'S buying is all consolidated and all merchandise bought for the entire thirty-six stores by not more than five buyers which eliminates great expense, as many stores in towns where we operate send dozens of buyers to the market every few weeks. Who pay their expenses. You, Friend Customer!

5th. By consolidating our buying we are in a position to buy such quantities that we can demand a price considerably less than the one-store merchant on most lines of merchandise.

6th. EFIRD'S operating expenses are less because we consolidate overhead expenses. The books of all EFIRD stores are kept in one central office. One young lady can keep the books for six stores. One stenographer can do the work for all stores. Other expense items are eliminated in the same way, which saves thousands of dollars for our customers each year.

GRAINS GO UP SHARPLY ON CHICAGO MARKET

(By The Associated Press)
CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—Grains went up sharply today, operators attributing the advance to a revival of confidence as the result of the election, a revival of export demand and a forecast of lighter receipts.
The bulge on the heels of the election came in the face of recent charges that prices were being unnaturally inflated for political reasons. Wheat returned most of an early advance, closing 3-4 to 3-5 cents higher, corn finishing 1-2 to 2 cents higher and oats retaining an advance of from 1-4 to 1-2 cents.

CRITICAL DAYS FOR THE TURKS

PARIS.—A despatch received in Paris states that the situation in the Hedjaz and Mesopotamia has become exceedingly grave, and may at any moment become critical for the Turks.
A small Pasha is becoming extremely unpopular. He dare not go to Constantinople, and cannot even appear in the streets of Angora without being in fear of his life.
In a manner satisfactory to the Turks his prestige will evaporate, and he will have to give place to another government.

DEPUTY WOUNDED IN A DUEL

ROME.—A duel with swords took place between the Fascist deputy and member of the Directorate, Signor Farinacci, and Prince Plinacci. Farinacci was wounded in the right arm.

Says—Now Stiff Joints Must Go

New Discovery Lingers 'Em Up and Even the Creaking Ceases.
Yes: it's true—the world progresses. All you have to do nowadays to limber up that stiff, rusty knee joint is to squeeze a half inch of miracle working substance from a tube.
Then rub it on the offending part for about a quarter of a minute or until it soaks through the skin and disappears on its errand of mercy.
Then read the evening newspapers and go to bed.
The chances are that your misbehaving knee joint will lose its 'creak' while you are dreaming about the high fences you used to leap when you were a youngster.
And in the morning," says one who has tried the new discovery, "you'll feel so happy that you'll want to jump into your sportiest clothes and walk briskly down the street just to show the neighbors that you are not as old as they think you are."
Joint-Ease they call this wonder working substance for the reason that when ordinary remedies fail to limber up the stiff, inflamed rheumatic joint, or reduce the swelling, Joint-Ease succeeds.
It's a good name for a good clean, penetrating prescription that in just a few months has proven to a multitude of people that lame, swollen, distorted joints can speedily have the kinks taken out of them and work as smoothly as ever.
But Joint-Ease is for bothersome joints, whether in knee, ankle, hip, shoulder, spine or finger and for that purpose its sale is immense.
McFall's Drug and Seed Store has a big supply of it and druggists everywhere report a big demand.
Always remember when Joint-Ease gets in joint agony gets out—quick.
Every rheumatic sufferer ought to send today for free book, "The Inner Mysteries of Rheumatism" (just out) address: E. Clearwater, box 500, Danville, Va.

As An Actor, Jack Is Called a "Riot"

By HARRY NEWMAN
(Chicago Tribune Service)
NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion boxer, is a riot. In his initial appearance on Broadway as a Thespian, William Harrison proved it thrice yesterday to crowded houses—in the 3-a-day at Loew's State Theatre.

His garb and his lines considered, he showed a lot of nerve, after momentary hesitation, if not actual bravado. Who it was all over, dramatic critics and boxing experts agreed Jack was still the world's heavyweight champion pugilist, not actor.

Jack Kearns, his manager; Marty Cutler, veteran heavyweight; Jack Sharkey, featherweight; and Marty Powers, have parts in the support. Kearns trips on first, splendid in white flannels, followed by Dempsey, similarly arrayed. The former introduces his meal ticket and they do a whirl at rapid fire patter. Kearns feeding. The champion Jack's reformed nose, his curly locks and his numerous reported engagements are hidden.

While Dempsey changes into ring attire, Kearns does a plea for boxing that causes real tears to trickle down his lean cheeks. One is brought to a realization of all that the death of boxing would mean to Dempsey's business agent.

Audiences get action and some laughs out of the main boxing number in which Cutler wears a baseball catcher's windpad pillow 15-ounce gloves extending almost up to his elbows and double barreled head gear. With this protection, Cutler enables Dempsey to show the punches that laid out Willard, Carpenter and Firpo. Jack doesn't spill through the ropes as he did before stomping Firpo, nor miss Cutler as often as he looks to be in great shape, but says after four weeks of thesea stuff he will repair to his California ranch and get hardened up again.

Freedom From Stomach Distress

McFall's Drug Store Has the Remedy and Guarantees it to End Indigestion or Gastritis. So Why Be Miserable?

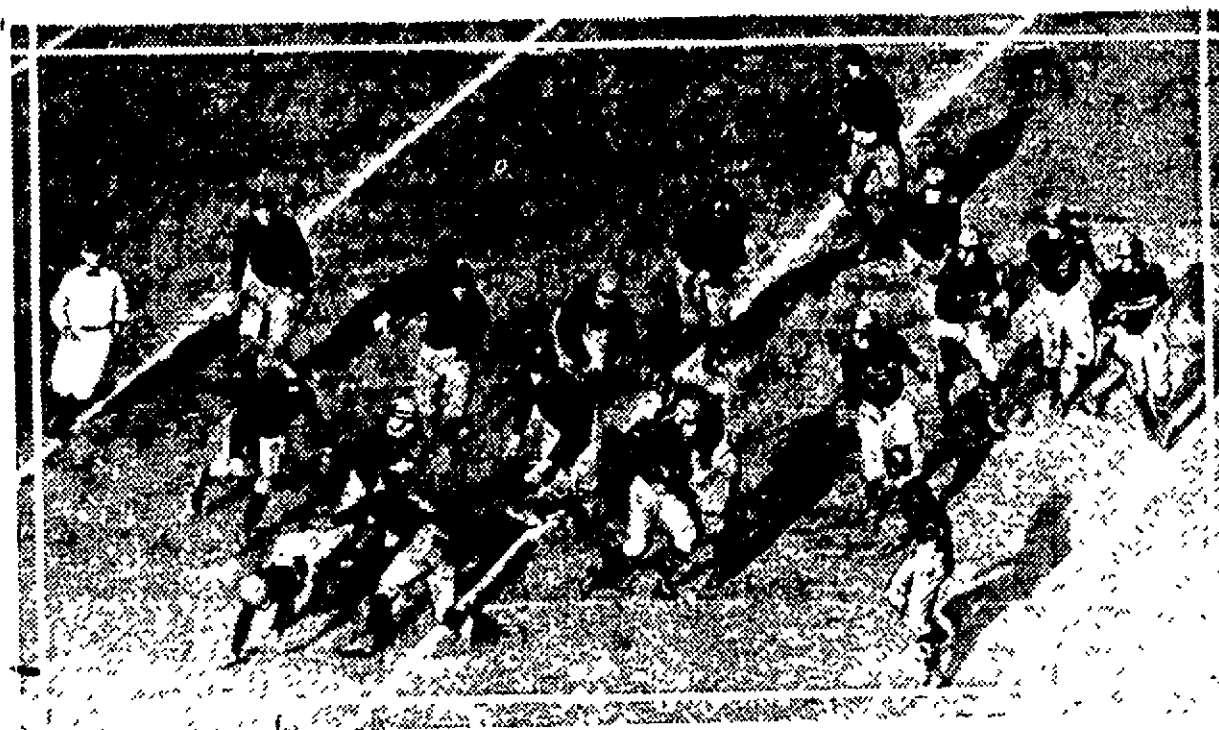

You can get one bottle of Dare's Mentha-Pepsin and if after you take it you do not say it did your stomach more good than anything you ever used before, your money will be waiting for you.
This delightful and effective elixir not only gives instant relief from gas, fullness, acid stomach and distress after eating, but taken regularly for a short time will turn your weak, run down stomach into a strong, healthy one able to perform its duties without help.
It ends indigestion, gastritis, catarrh of the stomach and does it in a surprisingly short period of time.
Dr. Wm. W. Morgan, a prominent dentist of Bridgeton, N. J., writes: "After suffering severely with gastritis and other stomach troubles, a friend gave me a bottle of Dare's Mentha-Pepsin. I had obtained little relief from other remedies but four bottles entirely ended the trouble." Get it at McFall's Drug Store and all regular druggists everywhere.

How To Keep Well

By Dr. W. A. Evans, Professor Chicago University.

(Questions pertinent to hygiene sanitation and prevention of diseases, if matters of general interest, will be answered in this column. Where space will not permit, or the subject is not suitable, letters will be personally answered to proper limitations, and where a stamped, addressed envelope is enclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases. Requests for such services cannot be answered. Address Dr. Evans, care The Bee.)

An Ancient Fallacy.
Sea water has been used as a medicine almost since the beginning of time. Hayhurst quoted the following from a book by Russell written in 1750 "Sea water will heal many diseases where mercury is of no service. Drink a pint of sea water next a morning, come to bed, repeated in the morning is generally enough for adults. For the king's evil, operate and use sea water both internally and externally."
With the exception of the last these quotations do not refer to the diseases for which sea water was used. Of what value was a diagnosis in that day, anyway? Take "king's evil" as a misnomer. First known under that name, it was next called scrofula and is now known to be a form of tuberculosis.

There are about thirty mineral elements in sea water. All of the thirty have been leached out of the soil. In the case of iodine, so much of that originally in the soil has passed into the sea that man and animals are suffering from a growing tendency to goiter. Hayhurst proposes that we concentrate sea water in such a way as to preserve all the mineral ingredients and to use this concentrate on our tables as a condiment.

Since the process of concentrating robs the sea for the sea, and since there is no corresponding process by which minerals are carried from the sea back to the soil man may be compelled eventually to adopt the Hayhurst suggestion, or get off the earth.

The great desert stretches now found in once fertile sections of Asia and Africa prove that this future may be in store for America and Europe.

Think Twice About This.
Mrs. J. P. writes: I am seriously thinking of adopting a girl 15 years old. She has a very bad case of eczema. Is this incurable? She also bites her fingernails and tells lies. Within the last two years since her mother's death she has been shifted from pillar to post and no one has taken care of her long enough to know the cause of all these things. Aside from these, she is the average normal child apparently another girl 4 and a boy 3. He gets epileptic fits since 1 1/2 years of age. The father is shiftless.

REPLY
Eczema is the least of the troubles noted. It is generally cured by changing the diet or the occupation. Think twice before adopting a child who bites the fingernails. She is probably nervous and may even be unstable. The eczema and biting nails may be skin. Both may be signs of abnormality.

The tendency to lie may be a sign of mental or moral abnormality, or of a lack of training.
Do not think of adopting a child that has frequent fits that may be epileptic.

Girl Gets Warts.
B. L. writes: I am a young girl 15 years old and have lately noticed that on my right hand there are little bumps, as though warts were starting to grow. Each one, individually, is smooth, but there are many of them. I have never had warts before. To what do you attribute this?

REPLY
No reason for thinking they are anything but warts. Seed warts are contagious—at least, sometimes. Recently a correspondent wrote that she had cured her case of seed warts by repeated applications of camphor.

A bachelor is a man who is so selfish he even wants to keep all of his troubles for himself.

CHINESE BOY EMPEROR TO BE GIVEN $500,000

PEKING, Nov. 5.—A new agreement imposed today by the defunct military government of Peking provides that titles be abolished for the household of the deposed Manchurian dynasty and that the imperial allowance be reduced from $4,000,000 annually to $500,000, with certain additional sums for the establishment of factories for Manchurian retainers to work in.

The boy emperor Huan Tung, will be permitted to live where he chooses, but the government retains responsibility for his safe guardianship.

The developments in connection with the visit of Feng Yu-shan's representatives to the imperial city, the removal of Huan Tung and the promulgation of the new order have caused a sensation in the capital.

Two families, descended from feeble-minded ancestors, have lost New Zealand the sum of $120,000.

GETS AWAY WITH $136,000 IN JEWELS

(By The Associated Press)

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 5.—A check today disclosed that the bandit who rifled the room of Henry Azate, 46, traveling representative of a New York jewelry concern, in a local hotel last night got away with only $136,000 worth of diamonds and other jewelry. Azate's first report to the police placed the loss at approximately $200,000.

In the meantime the police and authorities in nearby cities are searching for Roy Dickerson, a notorious convict who has been at liberty since his escape from the Alabama penitentiary two years ago this month.

In last night's robbery, the thief overtook $75,000 worth of jewelry in the room, which was entered during the absence of Azate.

PRES. COOLIDGE GIVES TIME TO HIS PLANS NOW

Victorious Candidate Begins to Map Out Program For Ensuing Term

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—With the evidence of his popular endorsement steadily increasing, election returns continued to come in, President Coolidge turned his thoughts today to plans for the next four years, including the setting up of his own administration and the framing of a legislative program to be presented to Congress.

In the latter connection attention at the White House centered on the results of the congressional contests. The present figures, though nominally in control of the republicans, has been dominated by the balance of power held by the LaFollette group in both branches. Because of this, it is expected few measures except the usual appropriation bills and possibly farm relief legislation will be presented by the president to the final session of the 68th Congress, which begins beginning December 7.

While Mr. Coolidge has declared for further tax reduction and "tax reforms," it is the opinion of those close to Secretary Mellon of the Treasury department and to the president that such legislation will not be pressed by the administration at the short session. Nor will an extra session be called after March 4th for this purpose alone. It is believed, unless clear working majority in each branch of the houses are assured and other emergency legislation is deemed necessary.

Meanwhile, Mr. Coolidge will be confronted with the problem of selecting a cabinet. It is thought likely that several of the present members will retire for personal reasons to private life and it is understood that the president will find some changes in the alignment. There is no wholesale transferring of department heads expected. No outstanding changes, however, are looked for prior to the inauguration.

MORNING SUGAR LETTER.
(Thomson & McKinnon)
NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Raws for prompt shipment and no available below 4 cents, full duties particularly being pressed for sale. Lowering of rates following the reduction abroad appears almost inevitable before the end of the week. Despite the surface indications of a strong statistical position, inventories are probably sufficiently large to satisfy consumption until the new crops come to market. Sugars should be disposed of at favorable opportunities, we believe.

MORNING GRAIN LETTER.
(Thomson & McKinnon)
CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—The immediate situation in cash wheat has been a drag on the market. Therefore, it is gratifying to note that yesterday's advance was based on buying by exporters and millers. There has been no excited unwarranted speculative buying, thus creating a healthy situation. However, the market will have to wait until the visible supply is heightened.
